ABOUT ME

I was previously teaching piano across the GTA but stopped due to covid restrictions. I began learning how to code late 2021 and took a bootcamp on full-stack web development in 2022. The bootcamp covered various concepts such as REST API, Object Oriented Programming, Object Relational Mapping and MVC. We were also introduced to several computer science concepts including global and functional execution context, event loops, data structures and sorting algorithms. There is a repository on my Github for each unit of the bootcamp, and my favorite projects are featured on my portfolio page.
